George Edward 'Ed' COOK Sex: M Birth: ABT. 1891 Death: 1945

Died in 1945 from a stroke. Before he was married, he drove hack (taxi). Later he became a teamster and had a dray business hauling coal, gravel and groceries from Stratford station for National Grocers to Milverton. He also hauled gumbo from the sewer farm to the Stratford golf course. The Stratford golf course was the best grass around. When trucks replaced horses, Ed quickly became one of the largest gravel operators in the area. At one time, he had 12 trucks on the go. The depression was hard on Ed's business and parts from trucks not used helped keep a few running during those difficult years. Ed was also the only one in the area licensed to handle dynamite. He was hired to blast the old smoke stack from the ruins of the old woolen mill by the banks of the Avon River in Stratford. Fearing that a blast would blow out the nearby court house it was decided to cap the chimney to keep kids from climbing up the inside ladder and perching on the top. The chimney is now a decorative part of the Shakespearean gardens.

George Edwin COOK

Birth: 10 DEC 1912

George left school at age 14 to drive a team of horses for his father. As soon as he turned 16, a truck was bought for George to drive. during the depression the haulage business was slack so George bought a farm near Mitchell in 1935. He borrowed $100 from the bank and bought 2 cows. He worked hard cleaning box stalls and doing odd jobs to pay back the loan. He worked with the Canadian National Railway firing engines in the round house during the war. After getting his 3rd and 4th class boiler license, he looked after the boilers at Whyte Packing Company and Kroehlersin Stratford. During this time he was also building up the farm and his calf's operation. An accident, while working at Whyte's caused him to lose part of his lungs when a pipe carrying compressed amonia gas suddently burst. In 1979 he sold the farm and bought a house in Mitchell.

One of George's interesting stories is about the time he was sent home from school because he would not write an essay about Sunday School. How could he when he had never been in one? After 2 weeks of staying at home an official from the school paid a visit to his father who was a staunch Orangeman. A threat was made that the Children's Aid would take George away if he did not attend Sunday School. Ed was not going to be pushed around so he told the official that he would take him down to the Catholic School in the morning and enroll him there. That night, Ed received a call that he was to send George back to school the next day. George never did see the inside of a Sunday School but was later confirmed in the Lutheran Church during his farming years.
